

Beach Landing

The skinks looked at each other in confusion. Why were the shores of their homeland held against them?

Game Length

The game ends once the attacker destroys all three objectives or after six turns.

Board set-up

Place two objective markers, each 24 in. from a short edge and 24 in. from a long edge. One objective can be on a hill and the other can be behind a low linear obstacle.

On the attacker's half of the board, the only allowed terrain pieces are low-linear obstacles and difficult terrain. Terrain can be set up as normal otherwise.

Deployment Zones

All of the attackers' units must be deployed on their long board edge. The defenders can deploy anywhere 18 inches away from the attacker's board edge.

Deployment & First Turn

The defender deploys their whole army. Then the attacker deploys their whole army. Finally, the defender may redeploy a single unit. Scouts are not allowed.

The defender gets the first turn.

Scenario Special Rules

Destroying objectives

For the attacker to destroy an objective, they must have at least 10 US and more US than the defender within 6 inches of the objective at the end of any turn.

Wave after wave

Attacking units and characters that are destroyed or flee off of the board (excluding the general) reenter the game at full strength on the attacker's board edge during their next reinforcements phase.

At the end of any turn, the attacker may remove any fleeing unit from the board.

Local Reinforcements

During the reinforcements phase of the attackers fourth turn, their reinforcing force enters from either short board edge.

Victory!

If both objectives are destroyed by turn...

- four or earlier, the attacker wins.
- five or six, it is a draw.
- Otherwise, the defender wins.

The winner gets 3 goal points, and the loser gets 1 goal point. Both players get 2 goal points in a draw.
