

Hostile Jungle

Only a fool would think the forests of the Old World and jungles of Lustria to be similar.

Game Length & Victory!

The game lasts until one army is completely destroyed. The last army standing wins 3 Goal Points. The other player wins 1 Goal Point. If both armies are wiped out simultaneously, each player gets 2 Goal points.

Deployment & First Turn

Roll off to see who deploys first. Whoever finishes deploying first, including scouts, gets +1 on the roll to decide who takes the first turn.

Scenario Special Rules

The Jungle does not welcome outsiders. Slowly but surely, a noxious gas fills the air.

Every turn, the playable area of the board diminishes as the poisonous gas spreads.

Place an objective marker at the center of the board to represent the center of the safe zone.

At the start of each round, roll a d6 for every model not wholly within the safe zone. If the result is less than the current round, that model loses half (rounding up) of its remaining wounds. Ward saves are allowed. These wounds do not cause panic.

Shrinking the safe zone

After the gas tests, the center of the safe zone scatters. On turns 1-3, it scatters d6 inches. On turns 4-6, it scatters d3 inches. If a “hit” is rolled, it does not scatter.

Until the next scattering, the safe zone has the following radius:

T1: 27 in. \ \ T2: 21 in. \ \ T3: 15 in.

T4: 12 in. \ \ T5: 9 in. \ \ T6: 6 in.

T7: 3 in. \ \ T8+: 0 in.

“In the gas” effects

Models not wholly in the safe zone suffer the following effects:

- Casting and dispel rolls made by models in the gas suffers a -2 penalty.
- Remains-in-play spells are dispelled at the end of the first phase they are in the gas.
- The gas counts as difficult terrain from turn 4 onwards.

Deployment Zone

Deploy within 12 inches of the long board-edges.
