

Let's get outta here!

Getting the treasure is the easy part. The hard part is getting it home.

Army Composition

The Attacker needs two forces:

- The Heroes: 1,500 points made up entirely of characters.
- The Relief Force: 500 points with no characters.
- Ignore all other army composition requirements can be ignored.

The Defender selects a 1,500 point army as normal.

Game Length

The game lasts 5 Turns.

Deployment and First Turn

See the attached map for deployment zones. The Defender deploys first, including scouts. Then the Attacker deploys The Heroes. The Defender goes first.

Scenario Special Rules

An Army of Heroes

The following apply to The Heroes:

- All characters are stubborn
- Once per game, foot heroes may march triple their normal movement.
- Special rules that benefit a foot hero's unit instead benefit all friendly models in their command range.
- Challenges issued by heroes cannot be refused.

The Relief Force

The relief forces arrive using the Ambushers special rule (roll for each unit separately) and must enter from the long table edge near the baggage train.

Depositing Treasure

Each of the Heroes is carrying treasure that they can deposit in their baggage train. To do this, a Hero must move to wholly within 6" of the baggage train during a remaining moves phase. If they are still there at the next start of turn phase and not engaged in combat, the treasure is deposited.

On turn 5, a hero need only end the game within 6" of the baggage train while not in combat to deposit their treasure.

Each hero can only deposit treasure once!

Victory!

The value of each hero's treasure is equal to their unit strength. If more than half of the possible treasure is deposited in the baggage cart, the Attacker wins.

If the Defender has no units on the board that are not fleeing at the end of Turn 5, the Attacker wins.

If either of the above conditions are not met, the Defender wins.

Let's get outta here!

